

The most characteristic feature of science is:

- a. the use of precise mathematical relations.
- b. precise quantitative observations.
- c. the absolute true of the scientific laws
- d. the mutually supporting relationship between theory and observation.